Buried History

Through this presentation we will show you the history that is buried in some of the oldest cemeteries in Wyandotte County. Some of them are still active, with people still being buried alongside of their loved ones, while others have been closed or abandoned.

Back in the 1980s the State of Kansas passed a law which required each county to be responsible for their abandoned and closed cemeteries. The Wyandotte County Museum now holds the records for these cemeteries and the Parks and Recreation Department is responsible for their maintenance.

Cemetery Map
Wyandotte Cemetery
5th and Minnesota

- After being forced from Ohio and their Missouri land purchase falling through, the Wyandot Nation was forced to settle on a small strip of land between the Missouri State line and the Kansas River.
- Shortly after more than 60 Wyandots died from disease and exposure.
- They chose a location on the crest of a hill overlooking the Missouri and Kansas Rivers for what is today called the Wyandotte Cemetery.
Many familiar names can be found in this cemetery

Familiar last names with no headstones:
Barnett – Sandusky – Splitlog - Tauromeem
The Conley Sisters

- The Conley sisters, Ida, Eliza, and Helena, are buried in this cemetery. The sisters played a vital role in saving the cemetery.
- Visit the Wyandotte County Museum to learn more about their story.
Ebenezer Zane
1868-1902

• Zane was the caretaker for the Wyandotte Cemetery.
• He was also an uncle to the Conley sisters.
Oak Grove Cemetery
3rd Street and Waverly

- Oak Grove became the first municipal cemetery in Wyandott in 1858, when 10 acres were purchased for the cemetery.
- Many well-known people were buried in this cemetery, with over 11,500 graves.
William Walker Jr.

- Walker was born in Michigan, educated in Ohio, and went onto become one of the most influential men in the Wyandot Nation.
- In 1843 he came to Kansas with his tribe.
- In 1853 he was appointed Provisional Governor of the Kansas Territory.

Born: March 5, 1799
Died: February 12, 1874
Mary was prompted to become a Civil War nurse, because her daughter was too young to enlist on her own. Mary was sworn into service in 1861 and was placed in charge of the Adams Block Hospital, where she earned the gratitude of the soldiers. When supplies were low, she begged from door to door. She mended soldier’s clothing in her spare time and would give money from her own pocket to help get soldiers home.

After the war Mary moved to Kansas City, Kansas, where she continued her efforts helping the poor. She passed, penniless, in 1892. The monument on her grave was provided by the Burnside Relief Corps.
Stephen Alonzo Cobb

• US Congressman. He served in the Union Army during the Civil War as a Captain of Volunteers in the Army's Commissary Department, and was retired as a Major, US Volunteers.

• He was elected to represent Kansas as an at-large delegate to the United States House of Representatives, serving from 1873 to 1875.
Four-year-old, Ruth Miller died as a result of eating candy tainted by strychnine poisoning. The poisoned candy was sent through the mail and was addressed to her sister, Ella Miller. Ella shared the candies with her siblings. Ruth took several pieces and ate them very rapidly, while the older children noticed a strange taste to the candy and spit it out. Within minutes of eating the candy Ruth complained of severe pain in her stomach and five minutes later she was dead. She passed on February 12, 1908 and is buried in an unmarked grave in Oak Grove.

It is believed their aunt, Sarah Morash Miller, sent the candy. She stood trial and was found guilty only of sending poison through the mail, but was never convicted of the murder. It is also suspected that she murdered her two husbands with strychnine poisoning, as well as another child left in her care.
DEATH OF COL. PARR.—Col. Parr, one of the earliest settlers in the city, died at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning last, at the residence of his son-in-law, Free Cole, corner of Washington Avenue and Eighth Street. His death resulted from the rupture of his foot. Col. Parr was born in Pennsylvania Sept. 1, and came to Kansas in March 1857. He settled in this city, where he resided until his death. At the city election held in Wyandotte City, April 1857, Col. Parr was elected mayor. His administration was admirable. When he first came to Wyandotte he embarked in mercantile business. Being a first-class mechanic, and seeing a good opening for contracting and building, he engaged in that business. M. A. Parr died Sept. 8, 1872. He had lived for 39 years. He was a kind and hearty man, and was always ready to help the distressed fellow man. He left three daughters, Mrs. M. E. Harper, H. B. Cole, and Mrs. H. L. Napier, and two sons, L. W. and H. B. Ward. He was buried on Sunday by Wyandotte City, No. 3, A. F. and A. M. Lodge, where he had been a member for more than a quarter of a century. A concourse of citizens followed the remains to Oak Grove Cemetery, where they were deposited to await final resurrection.

John Stockton
Died: May 6, 1900

- Stockton came to Wyandotte County in 1858. He was a member of the KCKS Bar Association and served as Mayor four different times.

- He and his wife Cora donated the land where Woodlawn Cemetery now sits.

- Two weeks prior to his death he was seen taking care of the cemetery in preparation for Arbor Day. He planted numerous trees and shrubs.

- Local newspapers noted that he was laid to rest in the shade of the trees he planted with his own hands. When the funeral hearse reached the cemetery, the line of carriages was still forming at his residence at 6th and Oakland.
William Warren Rose
Died: May 23, 1931

- Rose moved to KCK, in 1896.
- He served as Mayor from 1905-1906.
- He had an architecture practice with David B. Peterson, known for the Wyandotte High School, City Library, Bethany Hospital, the Scottish Rite Temple and Memorial Hall in KCK.
John B. Scroggs
Died: June 28, 1899

- Scroggs moved to Wyandott in 1866 and became one of the leading attorneys in the county.
- He was the second husband of Margaret (Kersetter) Cruise-Scroggs. (The couple were original owners of what is today the Strawberry Hill Museum.)
- At the time of his death he was placed in the Public Vault in Oak Grove Cemetery awaiting the completion of the Scroggs Family vault at Woodlawn Cemetery.
- In the 1990s the Scroggs vault began to fall in. John was being relocated the third time. John and his family were then buried in Memorial Park Cemetery.
- The concrete name plates were removed from this vault and are now stored at The Strawberry Hill Museum.
On June 17, 1933, Kansas City Missouri Police Detective Frank E. Hermanson was sent to meet other officers arriving at Union Station with federal prison escapee, Frank Nash. It is believed that an informant had relayed the information regarding the arrival of Nash and his law enforcement escorts to gangsters throughout the metropolitan area. The officers were not prepared for the ambush at the Union Station. Detectives William J. Grooms and Frank E. Hermanson, F.B.I. agent Raymond J. Caffrey, Oklahoma Police Chief Otto Reed, and the prisoner, Frank Nash, were all killed by the mobsters. Charles Arthur "Pretty Boy Floyd", Adam Richetti and Vernon C. Miller are believed to be the responsible mobsters. Hermanson, is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery.
Frank Hermanson was originally buried in grave six, the marker on the right are his parents John and Anna. The remains of Frank were removed from this grave on June 21, 1950, but the cemetery did not keep record of his new location. Years later his remains were found at Highland Park.

• Ida Barton enlisted as a war nurse when World War I broke out. She served in France where she nursed the wounded. She served with honors.

• Ida Barton went to Wisconsin where she worked at the Veteran’s Hospital.

• She died of cancer at the age of 58. Her body was laid to rest in Memorial Park in the Evergreen Section.

• She was buried with full military rights given by the Irwin Kirkwood post of the American Legion. All members of the William T. Fitzsimons American Legion Post were honorary pallbearers for Ida Barton.
Quindaro Cemetery
3726 Parallel Parkway

- Quindaro Cemetery was established in 1855. Originally, the cemetery was part of the land of the Delaware Nation. Before the middle 19th century, Reverend James Witten settled on the ground and built a church. Witten’s wife died and was buried on these grounds. When this land was transferred to the government, these two acres were reserved as a cemetery. The old log church burned in 1857.
An 1876 plat map shows the owner of the property in which the cemetery sits as being R.L. Gray. However on May 27, 1903 Willard & Anna Merriam sold two and a half acres of their land to the Mt. Hope cemetery association. And again in 1905 with the final plot being purchased in 1919.
Mr. and Mrs. Al Nelson attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Hogarty, wife of Capt. Will Hogarty, of Quindaro, Kansas, which was held on Tuesday. Mrs. Hogarty had been ill but a few days with pneumonia. Her death occurred Sunday. Capt. Hogarty is a retired Civil War officer and draws a pension of $130 per month. In the service he lost an arm and also his hearing. He was paralyzed, also. A year ago Capt. Hogarty’s home was entirely destroyed by fire. His wife managed to get him outside the house in his invalid chair, but only for the assistance of neighbors he would have been burned to death.
